

Fantastic Films Int'l signs multi-film sales deal with UK's House of Fear

1 October, 2009

Roxane Barbat and Fred deWysocki's Los Angeles-based Fantastic Films International (FFI) has signed a deal to handle worldwide sales on multiple films from Richard Driscoll's UK company House Of Fear.

The first film to emerge will be the 3D action title Eldorado starring the late David Carradine in his last role, alongside his fellow Kill Bill cast members Daryl Hannah and Michael Madsen.

The horror comedy is currently in post-production and FFI will introduce to buyers at AFM and screen footage.

Eldorado centres on a tribute band that gets sent to perform in the eponymous city where they encounter a woman on the run with her cheating husband's fortune and a local population with a taste for tourists.

House of Fear is in pre-production on two other live action 3D films that are part of the multi-picture deal, Wolfman In 3D and Watchmen Of Hellgate.

"We are very pleased with this multi-picture worldwide distribution deal with Richard Driscoll and House of Fear," deWysocki said. "Currently there is a great demand for live-action 3D movies and we are very impressed with the quality, vision and value of Richard's features."
